

Cumulative Keyword Index

The index includes major journal articles, bibliographies, fieldwork and research reports, lists of Associates, lists of institutions, Discussion and Criticism, problems in fieldwork, Scholars as People, terminology, Viking Fund Medalists, Viking Fund Publications in Anthropology, and indexes.

In CA 10:569-608 we published the Cumulative Index for vols. 1-10 (1960-69). This year's index begins afresh from 1970 and may accumulate through future volumes until a new beginning seems again advisable. The index contains a consolidated alphabetical list of keywords, authors, and commentators. Keywords are selected by the authors or editorial staff from the text of articles and comments, adapted or shortened to suit the space restrictions of the lists, and linked to the year of publication and the opening page of the article. For example, methodology appears with the abbreviated code 70 3. At this point the user has two options:

1. If he wishes more detail before actually going to the journal, he may look in the chronological listing for 1970 for the article beginning on page 3. There he finds additional information about the article. If he is familiar with the article and wishes to go no further, he may repeat the same procedure for other references to methodology.

2. If he is looking for any and all references to methodology, he may note the reference code, and, bypassing the chronological listing, go directly to the journal issue.

The user is cautioned to consult the index carefully for possible alternative listings. Also, names may appear in different forms, signifying different functions. For example, Juan Comas may appear as Comas J (used for authors), *Comas* J* (used for commentators), and Comas-Juan (used for keywords). A full explanation of the symbols used in the index is given below.

= This indicates the end of the title of an article.

* When used after a name, an asterisk indicates a commentator.

+ This indicates that a word has been shortened or cut off to fit the available space.

- Two words joined by a dash must be read together to be understandable.
